To maintain control over the top spots and the lion's share of prize money, top players and teams are required to maintain a high level of financial discipline. Some of them are parents—while others are sponsored by their parents. To understand the success of sponsored players and teams, and how this might impact the European Championship, I created an interactive ranking that displays 10 data points for each championship team. Pro League. The League of Legends European Pro League (LPL) is the top-level esports tournament in Europe. This competition started in 2017, and four teams are guaranteed to qualify for the play-offs each year: JD Gaming, Invictus Gaming, Team WE, and Royal Never Give Up (RNG). Depending on how the LPL is set up, more teams may qualify than the four we currently see. The three-year league has a total prize pool of about $300,000 for its competitors—money that goes directly to their teams. LPL Prize Money. Most of this money goes to the winner. The winning team receives half of a $100
