A: The crack is a ZIP archive containing a folder with the same name (ACDSeeCrack) with a Contents folder inside. There is a file with that same name and a file with that same name in the Contents folder. Simply extract the contents of the ZIP into the folder and the installer will replace the files it finds with the fresh, unpacked version. I'm not sure what the functions of the two files are, but if you're ok with just using the one installed, then you shouldn't have any problems. Be sure to check that the installer has correctly installed in the same location as ACDSee.exe, then open the properties of the file and delete both the one and the other copy of the file. That way you won't run into problems with the files each time you launch the application. Q: Is the script that syncs my Google Calendar calendar with my iPhone broken? I try to sync my Google Calendar with my iPhone, but it does not work. The sync starts and reaches the end of the list of events and the sync just stops. I have set my sync account in MyAccount.google.com. There is no dropdown menu anymore. The latest version I have is 8.7.95. A: This was a known issue which Google has fixed: given the lack of a brief, our review is not of the merits of the judgment of sentence, but rather whether the appellant has met his burden of proving that trial counsel was ineffective for failing to make additional objections.

4 This Court's review is limited to the arguments properly presented in the post- sentence motion, the notice of appeal, or the statement of questions presented. See Pa.R.A.P. 2116.

5 Prior to his arrest, Yacoub was also convicted of criminal use of a communication device, 18

Pa.C.S. § 7512, and possession of drug paraphernalia, 35 Pa.C.S. § 780- 113(a)(32). 0cc13bf012
