Surface water is water that collects on and around the surface of Earth. The water cycle is a continuous process of moving water from the atmosphere to the oceans, and from the oceans to the atmosphere, by evaporation and precipitation (rain, snow and other substances) and then back to the oceans and atmosphere, and it is responsible for the presence of life on Earth. The largest volume of water on Earth (most by amount and area) is contained within the oceans. According to estimates by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), 67.8% of the water on Earth is fresh water. The remainder is salt water. The oceans cover 71% of Earth's surface area, and are the largest reservoir of fresh water on Earth, with a volume of over 1,040,000,000 cubic miles (1,800,000,000,000 km<sup>3</sup>), which is equivalent to 1,500 times the volume of fresh water on Earth. The salt water consists of more than 300 million cubic miles (1.04 trillion km<sup>3</sup>) of seawater.[9] Considerations Weight Speed Superior sprint speed makes players more agile than their slower counterparts in certain situations. In addition, many characters are able to move at even greater speeds by relying on the power of electricity. (STOMP) Sprint speed is the rate at which a player's character moves. Characters may move faster than running or walking speed depending on the game's physics engine. Jump Height Jump height is how high a character jumps off a surface. 79a2804d6b
